TITLE HIGHLIGHTS

- Bye-Bye, Train: Learn about things that go and wave bye-bye to the colorful vehicles. Toot toot!
- Everybody Has a Body: Let's wiggle our toes and shake our heads while we learn the names of body parts.
- Five Little Pumpkins: Count the pumpkins together as this classic rhyme is brought to life!
- Listen to the Rain: Say the sounds of a storm—splish, splash, plop!—and follow an adorable puppy as it gets wet.
- Mixed-up Animal Sounds: Toddlers will giggle when the cow quacks and the duck meows. Luckily, the animals finally get their sounds right!
- My Favorite Book of Shapes: Toddlers will love tracing the shapes with their fingers—and a fun find-it game on each page.

Key Features:

- Each project offers a real-world demonstration of a science concept in action—and ends with an awesome slime that’s fun to play with
- Photos of materials and step-by-step instructions make the projects easy to follow
- Discover More About sidebars throughout the book explain science concepts
- A Test It feature challenges kids to use critical thinking skills to push the limits of their creations
- A Change It feature encourages readers to add cool twists to their slime
- Slimy Creatures feature offers brief bios of slime-makers from the animal kingdom
- A photographic timeline highlights important advances in slime
- Glossary helps explain important terms
- Digital content for further learning on this subject available at www.factsfornow.scholastic.com

PROJECT 1

TOOLS

- 3 small mixing bowls
- Plastic spoon or flat wooden craft stick
- Paper plate

MATERIALS

- 1/2 cup cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon fine glitter
- 4 teaspoons shampoo
- Blue, purple, and pink food coloring

INSTRUCTIONS

1 Pour the cornstarch into one of the bowls.

2 Carefully sprinkle the glitter on top of the cornstarch.

3 Add the shampoo to the bowl and slowly stir everything together. Add another drop or two of shampoo if the mixture is too dry. If the mixture is too wet, sprinkle in a bit more cornstarch.

4 Keep stirring until the slime is completely mixed. Then use your hands to knead the slime until smooth.

5 Divide the slime evenly between the three bowls. Add a drop of food coloring to each bowl. (Use a different color for each one.) Mix in the food coloring.

SEE IT SHIMMER

Use your hands to roll each colored slime into a tube. Lay them side-by-side on a paper plate. Twist and swirl the slimes together. The shiny bits of glitter will catch the light making the colorful slime sparkle.

We use energy every day. It fuels our cars, powers our cell phones, and provides light through the night. For centuries, people have relied mostly on fossil fuels such as coal, oil, and natural gas to provide this energy. In this A True Book subset, readers will find out what makes renewable energy sources such as solar, wind, water and geothermal power safer and healthier than fossil fuels. They will also learn how these energy sources are likely to impact our future.

Geography

The Pacific Coast forms Oregon's western border. To the north is Washington State. The mighty Columbia River forms most of the border between these two states. One of the largest rivers in the country, the Columbia flows 1,243 miles (2,000 kilometers) from Canada into the Pacific Ocean. Idaho lies to Oregon's east, while California and Nevada are to the south.

This map shows where the higher (red) and lower (green) areas are in Oregon.

Mount Hood

With a height of 11,239 feet (3,426 m), the summit of Mount Hood is the highest point in Oregon. This volcano was originally named W'axast by the Multnomah people, who have lived in the area for hundreds of years. Its snowy slopes make it a popular destination in northwestern Oregon for skiers and snowboarders. Mount Hood is home to the only ski resort in the country where people can ski year-round. Climbers and hikers also enjoy the challenge of trying to reach the mountain's snowy highest points.
